Dr. L. F. Patten, formerly assistant physician at the Brattleboro Retreat, who went from here last May to fill a similar position at the new Massachusetts asylum at Medford, left on Tuesday for Denver. He will spend the winter in Colorado, hoping for improvement in health with a change of climate.

The Boston Sunday Herald contained the following: Mr. Robert Gordon, the eminent portrait painter, and formerly of Boston, is still at his summer studio in Brattleboro, busily engaged on a number of prominent orders. One of Mr. Hardie's latest portraits in Boston was that of the Hon. Robert M. Morse, which is an extremely fine piece of work.

Col. H. E. Taylor was chosen president of the Fourth Vermont regiment association at the annual meeting at Rutland Tuesday. The other officers are: First vice president, C. W. Carr of Brandon; second vice president, H. H. Chaffee of Rutland; secretary and treasurer, F. F. Farrill of Waterbury; executive committee, W. E. Bliss of East Calais, George Herrick and George W. McAllister of Montpelier. During the evening an army campfire was held during which time coffee and genuine hard tack were served.

Lyndonville gave the address of the evening and a male quartet furnished music. There were short speeches by several of the old soldiers. The anniversary commemorated the battle of Cedar Creek.

All have a cordial invitation to these meetings. At 3 p. m. Mr. Maxwell will speak at Guilford Centre.

GRANGE NEWS.

A Merry Time Wednesday Evening.

Wednesday evening marked one of the pleasantest regular meetings of Protective grange that the members have enjoyed. There was a large attendance, and after the regular business was disposed of there was an hour of fun and amusement. The program was well handled by the lady officers. There were interesting remarks by C. D. Whitman, and a paper on secret societies by Mrs. J. A. Taylor.

Prof. John E. Gale introduced his new musical instrument called the "Octophone" with all the dignity possible. The machine consisted of about a dozen young ladies all tuned to the standard pitch, and when Mrs. W. C. Willard turned the crank they did the rest, producing what the professor called music. W. C. Willard did a neat impersonation act. The closing event of the evening was the piece entitled "The Burial of Sir John Moore" in every known and several unknown tongues. It was also sung and whistled in seven different languages. An award of excellence was offered and the committee decided that the "duet" was the most deserving. The duet was by Worthy Master P. S. Eames and Mrs. W. C. Stone, and a tin medal was presented to them by Col. H. E. Taylor with appropriate remarks.

The 100th anniversary of the establishment of organized Methodism will be observed with appropriate exercises in the Heding church at Barre, Oct. 28, 29 and 30.

BETHEVILLE ETCHINGS.

Walter Tidd came home from Northampton to stay over Sunday.

F. W. Johnson has broken ground for a new house that he intends to build on Cherry street.

Mrs. C. W. Brook and daughter and Mrs. Smith of Putney have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Ella Sanders.

Miss Eloise Sanders and Miss Daisy Wells showed us a bunch of red raspberries, also some fine specimens of English daisies and some of the common daisies, that they gathered one day this week.

The cistern on Fuller park was found to be dry, there being a large leak in it, so that it had to be closed and repaired last Saturday. The fifth taken out went left on the street until Thursday, when Haliff Morse ordered its removal.

Herbert Waterman has converted one of his basement rooms into a neat little work shop, and has a small gasoline engine to give him power to run his machines, so that his family are free from the business making overalls for Hooker, Corser & Mitchell.

The sewer on Pleasant and Vine streets was finished last Wednesday, and seldom does a job receive so many pertinent criticisms for a display of unskilled workmanship. The condition in which this street was left is a witness that speaks in tones that some of the town officials ought to heed.

There is a real estate trade which L. A. Moore has been anxious to make with the Estey Organ company which we believe would be of great benefit to both parties and a saving to the town of many dollars in the near future, if Mr. Moore should carry out his idea of turning the brook at the rear of the water house on Chestnut street.

Several of the ladies met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Burnett Thursday afternoon to give for a very worthy woman whose husband died several years ago, and who was left with a family of small children, and who is now in quite poor health. That is right, ladies, go on with the good work. We believe charity begins at home, and that there is plenty of missionary work to do in Vermont.

Our suggestion of last week of changing the name of Maple street to that of Webster avenue was pleasing to our people and already there is a petition being circulated which will be presented to the balliffs to make the change. There is a desire among our enthusiastic people to have a grand opening and jubilee on Webster avenue when Mr. Stockwell shall have the job in readiness to christen. Already an outside friend has offered to furnish the oysters for the supper. Esteyville that has kept pace for the last score of years with the rest of the village on the low path that Rufus Clark trod 50 years ago, now transformed into one of the finest avenues in our village, will spread her wings and grow.

SMITH-NEWMAN.

Palms filled the chancel, and chrysanthemums decked the pews of the corner aisle in the New Old South church, Boston, Monday evening, at the marriage of Miss Jeannie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith of 270 Newbury street, and Albert Newman of Marlboro street. To this bridal chorus from Longmear the bride procession advanced to the altar, where awaited the officiating pastor, Rev. Dr. Gordon, and the groom attended by the best man, Jerome Smith, brother of the bride. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in ivory white tulle, trimmed with white lace and chiffon that well set off her decided brunette coloring. The tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a large bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Helen Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids, Miss Lois Kerr, Miss Ethel Sands, Miss Mary Jones, Miss Daisy Harding, Miss Florence Goodwin, and Miss Olive Morrison, were gowned in white muslin with pink ribbons. They carried pink carnations. The ushers were Whipple Smith, head usher; Arthur Teale, Harry Hartwell, Samu'l Robinson, Herbert Simonds, Thordike Spaulding, Edmund Greene, and John Hancock. Following the ceremony was a reception at the bride's home to the relatives and intimate friends. Here the decorations were palms and pink roses. Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, who assisted in receiving, was gowned in gray silk, with duchesse lace and diamonds. After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Newman will be at home at 465 Washington street, Brooklyn, Wednesday in January. Among the guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ryder of Brattleboro. Mrs. Ryder is the groom's aunt.

A World's convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will open at Toronto, P. O., to-morrow. The union will be a large attendance of delegates from this country. All the countries of Europe will be represented, with representatives besides from Africa, India, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and Hawaii.
